Of Counsel, International Tax

plebreux@moodystax.com

"The ability to understand and utilize global laws and determine their potential interaction with Canadian laws is a fundamental tool in effectively representing today's high and ultra-high net?worth clientele in the globalized marketplace."

A go-to in the areas of cross border and international tax and estate planning, Paul's guidance and knowledge are highly sought after by domestic and international corporations and high net-worth individuals. He has been quoted in countless national and international legal and financial publications, has taught extensively, and has made numerous television appearances, along with speaking at hundreds of international tax and legal conferences throughout the world. So we aren't hyperbolic when we say he's recognized as one of Canada's leading international tax practitioners. He applies his vast legal and business experience to each client case that crosses his desk, looking at each situation from multiple angles, and ensuring that the optimal outcome is achieved – cookie-cutter solutions don't cut it for Paul.
