“The problem is not that the people are taxed too little. The problem is that the government spends too much.” – Ronald Reagan

Many people spend their post-high-school years in university or travelling, experimenting with different classes, majors, or jobs trying to figure out what exactly they want to do with their lives. This indecisiveness was not the case for Jennifer Silvius, a Political Science major at the University of Alberta.

A naturally logical and critical thinker, Jennifer always knew she wanted to be a lawyer. Upon receiving her Bachelor's Degree, she attended Charlotte School of Law trying a variety of types of law before focusing in on tax at the University of Florida School of Law. Passionate and driven, Jennifer relishes the challenges of helping clients find the best solutions for their particular situations.
